Ms. Judy Feinstein
Special Education Inclusion Teacher
Elizabeth G. Lyons Elementary School

Judy Feinstein is a Special Education Inclusion Teacher at the Lyons ES. She is the primary Special Education Teacher for second grade and supports fourth grade with Math. Ms. Feinstein has served on a number of district and school-based committees. She is always the first person to lend a hand and volunteer to help where needed. Currently she is in her twelfth year at Randolph Public Schools.

Ms. Feinstein is the mother of two young adults. Her daughter, Leah, a recent graduate of Northeastern University recently relocated to San Francisco where she works for LYFT. Her son, Gregory, is a senior at Northeastern University. She loves to travel and she, and her husband, Lou, have been covering the globe over the last few years. In the last two years, they have traveled to Spain, London, Amsterdam and France. Ms. Feinstein's favorite travel destination is Alaska. She also loves to sail, read and spend days at the beach.

Randolph Public Schools is fortunate to have you, Ms. Feinstein. Thank you for your service!

Ms. Tracy Nadolny Duguay
Music Department Chair
Randolph Public Schools

Tracy Nadolny Duguay grew up in Middleboro, MA. She earned both undergraduate and graduate degrees from Bridgewater State University.

Ms. Duguay has worked for Randolph Public Schools nine years. Her favorite part of work is being able to have the variety in her job which allows her to inspire children from grades K-5 in music. She loves teaching general music and watching the children develop over the years, but also being able to teach the older elementary students instrumental and choral music. Seeing them grow as expressive and talented musicians through high school always makes her so proud of our community.

Ms. Duguay participates in half ironman triathlons (70.3) every summer. She also sings with the Tanglewood Festival Chorus and the Boston Pops.

Ms. Duguay, thank you for the passion, energy and commitment you bring to the music department.
